JOHNSON SAYS POWER RESTS WITH CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Senator William Johnson today expressed his belief that the war department will have no power to interfere if the pending S. F. bridge bill becomes law.

Under existing law the department has authority to prevent the construction of a bridge even though authorized by congress if the structure might interfere with navigation.

Senator Johnson was asked if such authority would extend to the proposed San Francisco bay bridge, a bill for which is now pending. He replied:

"The San Francisco bridge bill was most carefully drawn by Judge Sullivan and City Attorney O'Toole to cover the very question you ask. If the bill becomes a law San Francisco will have the right to build a bridge. It specifically determines the question of right. With the permission accorded the city in the language of the bill, in my opinion, no department of the government can prevent the construction of the structure."

VIENNA, May 10.—The chief of the peasant army, who was reported tonight in a dispatch from Belgrade, stating that General Holban, reputed leader of the movement to recall Carol to the throne, had been placed under arrest.

Dispatches told of the death sentence being passed by a court martial against 17 Rumanian soldiers convicted of disloyalty and desertion in connection with the recent peasant demonstration against the present Rumanian government, is ill.

Two mysterious visits to the Godstone mansion, Surrey, where Carol has been living, have been explained by the announcement that Carol has suffered a chill and had a fever of 102.

The illness of the "ex-prince," as Sir William J. Mason-Hicks, secretary for state and home affairs, termed him today, in the house of commons, may delay his departure from England, the attending physician pointed out today.

The home secretary has extended the time that Carol will be allowed to remain in the country until Monday, but the doctor's statement indicates that a further stay may be needed.

UPS AND DOWNS OF STOCKS

Stock prices went up again this week. The buying frenzy is due largely to the presence in the market of thousands of inexperienced persons who are staking their fortunes, large and small, to make a killing.

Stock prices have been going up so long that most of these new speculators have got into their heads the idea that they never will come down again.

They are mistaken. The boyhood saying, "Whatever goes up must come down," is just as true of stocks as stones.

Wise investors will take note. They will clear out of the market before it drops down to normalcy.

When that time comes the small fry will be caught in a jam.

Their life savings will melt away in such short order that it will make their heads swim.

The belief that there must be a reduction in the price of some overvalued stocks is held by almost every keen student of financial affairs.

All who do not will be led one fine day to the shearing house.

MARRYING FOR LOVE

Miss Grace Waldron is a girl who proves by her own act that marriage for love is still in fashion.

She exercised a woman's privilege to change her mind when she met a young clergyman and discovered what real love was.

"It was love at first sight," is the explanation of the clergyman to questioners.

No other explanation is necessary.

When love enters the heart, riches, social position and luxury are wisely discarded, for none of these things can make up for a lifetime of regret.

A lifetime with a real pal is worth more than all the alimony a divorce court can bring.

ENDANGERING 1000 LIVES

Motorists owe a duty to the public, even if they have no care about their own lives.

When a man, as happened recently, drove his car directly onto a railroad track and derailed a speeding train by his rash act, he is taking into the gamble not only his own life but those of a thousand other people.

This is spreading danger over too many families. It brings tragedy close to the doorsteps of too many homes.

"STOP, LOOK, and LISTEN!" is sound advice, and it applies to every street crossing as well as to every railroad crossing.

If it were followed to the letter, the terrible death toll of motor fatalities would be cut almost to nothing.

Readers who desire private answers should enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover cost of typing, etc. Because of space limitations it is not possible to print answers to all letters received, and readers who wish an early reply should take advantage of this special service. On account of the large quantity of mail coming to this department, about ten days should be allowed for a reply. Write to Patricia Lee, care of this paper.

Dear Patricia Lee—

Will you please advise me what the most proper and sensible thing to do would be? I am a woman, in my late thirties (single) and last summer I met a man (a bachelor) almost twenty years my senior. I went out to shows and places with him for almost three months, but during that time he broke a date with me. I heard nothing from him until about a month later when he called me on the phone and without a word of explanation asked for a date, like a lonely and a stranger in the city. I decided to overlook the "standing" and so make a date and continued going around with him for another two months. Then he broke another date. I didn't hear from him this winter, and about a week ago I met him on the street but he pretended I didn't see him. That evening he called, and he has called twice since, but I have not been in, never could care for a man so much older than myself seriously, but last summer I was rather pleasant to have some one to take me around. Should I give him another chance?—ALICE

Dear Alice—

It seems to me you are getting out of this friendship just what you put into it. You are going around with this man because you have no one else and you like to have dates occasionally. That is quite all right, I am not implying that it isn't; but at the same time you must not expect too much when you simply take all and have nothing to give in return. I do think your friend has been very rude; in this day of telephones why he should "stand you up." But if he hasn't learned manners at his age, it is almost too late to teach him. Weigh the pleasures you get against the inconvenience of an occasional wasted evening, and if it seems to you that the pleasure means more than by all means accept the dates.

But at that moment Twinnie, who had taken the music room window as her place of inspection, let out a funny little gasp. "Do you remember, Twin," she asked, "whether or not we put down the top of the old square piano?"

"Of course we did," Joe said, running over to her side of the porch. "Didn't we forget to put the music away, and then have to open the piano and then close it again?"

The eyes of the three children were getting bigger and bigger, as they pressed their noses against the dirty panes of the window.

"And look," Twinnie said, "there's Grady's song book. I know I put that away!"

When my daughter was about 6 years old, one day she asked me for a peach. When I told her they were too green, she answered by saying: "Well, mother, couldn't we rouge them up a little bit?"

When my daughter was about 6 years old, one day she asked me for a peach. When I told her they were too green, she answered by saying: "Well, mother, couldn't we rouge them up a little bit?"

How To Earn Money!

I am a student in my second year in Teachers' Training school, but it is my mother's sacrifice which is making this possible. Therefore, it is absolutely necessary for me to work this summer. I have a position as counselor offered me on condition that I recommend three children as campers. But I don't know of any. Can you help me?—S. W.

I think that if you wrote to some of the prep schools that are advertised in the magazines you would reach the better class of boys and girls. You might appeal too, through the churches in the better neighborhoods and through the private schools in New York and Brooklyn. If you can arrange and you should be able to, I would suggest a little talk to the classes.

The one thing I like very much to do is baking. I please my family well, but I am at a loss as to how I can improve my talent so that it will give me financial returns. How can I improve my knowledge, and how can I build a trade?—MRS. R. D.

Don't make the cakes fancy, my dear. People are more interested in the way they taste than the way they look. Don't you think? Especially when you're advertising a "homemade." For building a trade, send cards around the neighborhood, offering to make cakes for special occasions. There is also a shop in Brooklyn, run on a commission basis, to which I am very glad to refer you.

I am an experienced switchboard operator and desire a position at night or in the evening. I cannot work for the telephone company, as they require one to be vaccinated. Do not tell me to advertise or chase about, for I have done both until I am disgusted.—M. M.

But, my dear, there is no royal road to a job! I admit that this winter has been the most discouraging in many years, but the only thing to do is to keep plugging away. You have such a wide field as operator in some apartment house that I am sure you could get something if you tried hard along this line. Go to some of the large construction companies and see if you cannot get a list of the owners of new apartment houses. Register with the employment agencies, too. In fact make all personal contacts you can.

Mrs. Sarah Spence will answer all questions on "How to Earn Money at Home." Address her care of this paper.

WHY I BLUSHED

While dining in a restaurant with my husband the other night I picked up a pair of black gloves lying on a chair near me. Handing them to my husband, I said: "Here, daddy, are your gloves; that's the way you lost your last pair."

Suddenly a man reached over and grabbed them, saying to me: "Yes, lady, and that's they way I lost the last pair, too!" Did I blush? I'll say I did.

Vigorous Health

MENUS

I am frequently asked to suggest menus, and while I do not like to do this, as what applies to one may not apply equally well to another, yet there is a general plan for menus which will apply to most persons in reasonably normal health.

For these I suggest the following simple menus with the addition of the juice of one or two oranges taken from thirty to sixty minutes before breakfast. If desirous of building up the weight and vitality, a raw egg yolk can be added to the orange juice. In this case eggs are not taken at other meals.

BREAKFAST

Baked Apple or Prunes
Muffins with Raisins, Oatmeal with Honey

LUNCH
Tomato Soup or Fruit Salad
Cold Slaw with Ripe Olives
Brown Muffins

DINNER
Lettuce and Celery or Lettuce and Tomato
Cauliflower Spinach
Baked Potato Baked Salmon
Cottage Cheese Apricots
Rye Crackers
Cocoanut with Cream

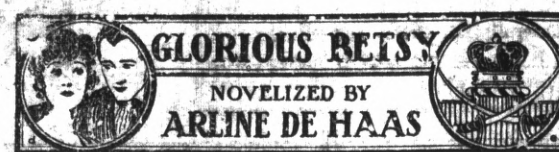

I suffer with watery eyes. This is very noticeable when talking to some one, especially if we are quarreling. Can you help me to remedy this defect?—E. G.

Your trouble would appear to be due to nerve irritation from emotional disturbances. You should never quarrel with anybody. Keep the mind occupied with constructive thoughts so that there is no time or opportunity for negative thoughts to manifest themselves. Avoid all nervy irritants such as tea, coffee, spices and condiments. Due attention is given to all general health-building measures and the eyes can be bathed in cold water twice per day. Avoid eye strain.

GOOD MANNERS

Q. In eating soup should the spoon be dipped away from or toward one?

A. The spoon is dipped away—never toward you. Take it from the side of the spoon and not the tip.

"GLORIOUS BETSY," starring Gloria Costello, is a Warner Bros. production of this novel. Based on the play by Rida Johnson Young.

SYNOPSIS

The beautiful Betsy Patterson is staying with her father and aunt at Sunset Springs Inn. Surrounded by eager admirers she is secretly attracted to her French tutor, the handsome La Vert. While she is preparing for a lesson, two French officers arrive at the Inn. She is angry when La Vert leaves her abruptly and does not see the officers again. They greet him as the runaway Captain Jerome Bonaparte, brother and ambassador of Napoleon. They agree to give him another hour, signifying before returning with them. Seeking out Betsy, he finds her thinking of the prospect of entering Jerome Bonaparte in Baltimore.

"Yes, Monroe has settled it all with M. De La Roche," Major Patterson surveyed his daughter's guests, pride exuding at every pore. "His last visit is to be paid to us before he sails for France. Now what do you say to your old swindling father, eh?" He pinched his daughter's cheek.

"Oh, you dear old thoughtful darling," Betsy threw her arms about her father's neck and kissed him soundly. "Then we are really to receive the brother of Napoleon!"

Murmurs of congratulatory approval swept through the group of men who now stood about, commenting on the news brought by the Major.

"Oh, I'll be the envy of Baltimore!" Betsy cried joyously. "Is he handsome? Is he engaged? Is he a millionaire?"

"But, papa—"

"Hold your tongue, Betsy!" Patterson snapped. "And as for you, he turned on Jerome, shaking his fist in that young man's eye. 'You are a Frenchman, sir. You ought to be the last man in the world to malign Jerome Bonaparte.'"

Jerome hastily suppressed a smile and nodded his head as though he agreed with every word his employer said.

"Quite right," he approved. "But, Monsieur, your daughter is going to France in the fall, and wishes to speak the language, and I ask how am I to instruct her in French? You take up my time like this!" He cast an accusing glance at the excited father of his pupil.

"What?" he belated at La Vert, "whose time? Your time?"

"If you do so, and use the time as you are now," Jerome continued reprovingly, "you are giving your daughter a very bad example."

"Yes, papa," Betsy began to beg to be let alone.

"Well, on all this," Patterson began to bluster, adding, "I don't mean to think, miss. I'll do all the thinking. 'Gad, my own daughter stands up against her father! I'll tell you, she started for his bedroom last night and tried to get rid of me.'"

Betsy looked perfectly abashed, and as hopelessly innocent as a toddler, "chérie," "listen, young man," he took a step towards Jerome, his face once more becoming the hue of a ripe tomato. "I stand a good deal from you because my daughter says you speak fine French."

"Splendid, Papa!" Betsy clapped her hands gleefully and watched the effects of her father's words on her tutor.

"But fine as your French may be, Major Patterson thundered, "he doesn't understand a word of it, I dare say." The Major served on his lovely daughter.

"But let me tell you, sir," he shook his fist. "I've had three previous tutors, and every one of them made love to my daughter, and—"

"Papa! Please!" Betsy tried to quell this outburst of confidence that so ill suited her plans. For the fact that all her teachers had made it a habit to fall in love with her might make it appear to "La Vert" that she was accustomed to encouraging the affair. When, as previously, Betsy assured herself, it had not been her fault in the least. She couldn't help it when these instructors began to look dreamily off into space in the middle of a lesson, and to talk nonsense about her and to her. Her father was not to be put off.

"Hold your tongue, Betsy!" Patterson demanded. "Now, if your anxiety has turned to the tutor's presence, be relieved to my surprise, has anything to do with such stuff and nonsense."

POOR INVENTOR SEEKS TO WIN RICH HEIRESS

If you want to laugh heartily go to the Richmond theatre today where "The Wife's Relations" is the feature attraction. The plot revolves around an odd quartet consisting of an inventor, author, author and artist, none of whom can make a living. They succeed, however, in holding the services of a cross-eyed cook and dwelling on large New Jersey estate as caretakers.

The inventor convinces an elevator girl, who in reality is an heiress, that her life will hold far more up and downs if she married him. She does and then the fun begins. Father and mother call. They are impressed, until the former sweetheart of the heiress, turns up at an unannounced moment and upsets everything.

The picture is constructed to get the most comedy possible out of every situation. To that end a cast of well-known comedians has been assembled including Shirley Mason, in the stellar role, Gaston Glass, Ben Turpin, Flora Finch and a great cast of other screen players. Other film features include the eighth chapter of "Heroes of the Wild," featuring Jack Hoxie, and Felix the Cat in "Japan-Jack."

DIVORCE LAW CHANGE ASKED BY LINDSEY

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—Judge Ben B. Lindsey today announced a campaign to supplant divorce courts in California by creation of a "house of human welfare." The exponent of compassionate marriage said he plans to open a fight for the complete and immediate revision of California's divorce system.

With headquarters in Los Angeles, Lindsey will wage a campaign to have the State Legislature create his "house of human welfare."

This would be a State institution, consisting of a judge and experts in psychiatry, psychology and sex. Couples seeking a divorce would submit their cases to this tribunal.

Lindsey believes that through this system the State would be saved millions of dollars and the divorce rate reduced at least 25 to 35 per cent.

TRAGIC ROLE IS PORTRAYED BY LON CHANEY

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—Lon Chaney, in his first clown role since his sensational success several years ago in "He Who Gets Slapped," comes today to the California theatre, when he will appear as the central figure of Herbert Brenon's elaborate production, "Laugh, Clown, Laugh."

The new picture is a vivid drama of backstage life of the theatre, with Chaney in the role of a clown, who, for the happiness of the woman he loves, makes a tragic sacrifice.

Loretta Young, new discovery of the screen, plays the heroine, Simmentia, and Nils Asther, of "Sorrel and Son," the juvenile lead as Luigi, Bernard Siegel, Gwen Lee, Cissy Fitz-Gerald and others of note are in the cast.

A massive reproduction of a great European theatre and other elaborate settings lead lavishly to the tense drama. Chaney runs the gamut of theatrical art, appearing as a ludicrous comedian in the theatre scenes, and in others plumbing the depths of tragedy.

Other film features include "The Old Wallpapers," an Our Gang comedy "Jewels of Venus," and current news events.

Sometimes after a girl has fished for a man and landed him she doesn't know how to get him off the hook.

WOMEN TO GET SHARE OF SIR DRAKE ESTATE

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—Although her name is plain Silvia A. Jones, this Los Angeles woman expects to prove she is a descendant of Sir Francis Drake. If she does she will share in a fortune of more than $60,000,000 which has been accumulating since the great English sailor-adventurer died.

Mrs. Jones will go to London soon to present her claims. The case will be heard in the Court of Chancery, which the novelist Dickens immortalized. Mrs. Jones is the daughter of Mrs. Amanda Drake Ollsh, who died recently.

Baby King Reviews Parade of 30,000 Rumanian Troops

BUCHAREST, May 10.—Michael, baby king of Rumania, dressed in a white suit, blue coat, short stockings and patent leather shoes, today reviewed the parade of 30,000 troops amidst the cheers of the populace.

Taking part in the national celebration of the crowning of Carol of Hohenzollern in 1886, the youthful monarch received the salutes of the parading generals and returned them in a smart, military manner.

At one point in the parade, his grandmother, Queen Marie, dressed in white silk with an ermine cloak indicated her favorite detachment of cavalry and said to Michael: "You must learn to ride as well as they."

The young king answered: "I shall try tomorrow on my pony."

Prince Nicholas, brother of former Crown Prince Carol and a member of the white horse of the late King Ferdinand, there were also present in the king's entourage Princess Helen, wife of Carol and mother of the monarch; Princess Elizabeth of Greece, Princess Lianna and members of the regency.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically, and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling, because it is so pure and harmless. And works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

DELIGATES SO TAX SESSION MEET TODAY

SACRAMENTO, May 10.—County officials and taxpayers of virtually every county in northern California and persons interested in tax problems are gathered this morning at the County Court House at the first of a series of conferences sponsored by California Taxpayers' association, explanatory of the recently enacted Boggs Budget Bill and dealing with the process of budget study.

Mr. M. D. Lack of Los Angeles, tax counselor of California Taxpayers' association speaking on the Boggs Budget Bill, said:

"The new Boggs law provides for a uniform budget system for all counties in the state. San Francisco is excepted because it operates under a combined city and county government."

"The law provides that on or before August 15 of each year the supervisors shall draw up a provisional budget arranged along specified lines, and that this budget shall be published. A public hearing then must be held on or before August 29 and at this meeting it is provided that the public may appear and make whatever protests they desire. Following this hearing the supervisors must adopt a final budget and fix a tax rate and this must be done on or before the first business day in September."

The purpose of the conference, which will continue this afternoon and tomorrow morning, is to enlighten the public regarding the privileges they are entitled to under the new law and to instruct them in methods of analyzing budgets arranged under the new system.

Mr. Edward Morrice of Sacramento, chief accountant of the State Department of Finance, explained the new unified budget forms which will be used for the first time by all of the California counties except San Francisco. Said Mr. Morrice:

"We really are putting the budget in operation as a big job. The benefits derived from a budget system such as that provided for in the Boggs' county budget act, however, offset by far the additional expense incurred in compiling the essential data and we feel safe in saying that, once the budget system is put into operation, the counties will not want to return to the old, unscientific methods."

Mr. L. P. Williams, county auditor of Sacramento county, addressed the conference on how the auditor can assist the taxpayer in budget study, pointing out that a taxpayers' guide, published by the counties, would materially make clear many of the items which are included in a budget. He made a plea for the standardization of the terms that are used in the making of budgets.

Mr. Harold A. Stone of Los Angeles, chief engineer of California Taxpayers' association, speaking on road planning and road finance, said:

"The yearly budget, as required in the 1928 law, is a part of a long-term program of Improvements covering a period of five to ten years. This program presupposes a n adopted county highway system of roads. Therefore, before an ideal yearly budget can be made, not only the adoption of a county highway system is necessary, but also a long-term program of improvements for that system."

GIANT P. T. A. WILL HOLD WHIST PARTY

A public whist party will be held tonight in the Giant club-house by the Parent-Teacher association of Giant school. A cash door prize will be awarded and many prizes will be awarded to the holders of high scores. Mrs. J. E. Durand is in charge and the games will start at 8 o'clock.

Practice Session Will Be Held By Drummers Tonight

The recently organized drum and bugle corps of Honor Post 913, Veterans of Foreign Wars, had its regular bi-weekly practice Monday night at Alvarado park, with over a dozen in attendance. Now that the bugles and bass drum have arrived, the boys are beginning to sound like a real musical marching organization and some of the best buglers in the city are among them. Although the drummers have had several more practices than the horn blowers it will not be long before they will all be playing together with all the harmony of an old time war outfit marching to battle.

FERRY LINE TO BE PURCHASED BY BRIDGE CO.

Negotiations have been practically completed for the sale of the Martinez-Benedict Ferry company and the deal is scheduled to be ratified at a meeting of the board of directors of the ferry company at Martinez today.

According to reliable information, if the deal is consummated, the toll bridge company will acquire all operating properties of the company but not real property in Martinez and Cordoba.

It was said that the price offered for the ferry business is in the neighborhood of $10,000. If the sale is ratified by the directors it is said that the American Toll Bridge Company will acquire the ferry steamers City of Seattle and City of Martinez, operated now by the ferry company, and the steamer Issaquah formerly operated by the Rodeo-Vallejo Ferry company on the Rodeo-Vallejo run. She has an automobile capacity greater than any of the American Toll Bridge City of Martinez.

A new idea in wedding gowns is the period costume of silver lace worn with a silver net veil held in place of a coronet of silver leaves.

The drum and bugle corps is proud to have in its rank one of General John J. Pershing's personal buglers, in Comrade Sam Holmes, head salesman for Hudsonston Nash company of this city, and it is safe to say that Sam is there with the real old-time army bugling.

The next regular practice of the Corps will be this evening, at the same place, and all members are urged to be at the Memorial building as near seven-thirty as possible, so that the boys will not be so late getting started. The city has very kindly agreed to turn on the lights for the Corps twice weekly, so it is up to the boys to take advantage of this kindness, which is certainly appreciated by all concerned.

LEAGUE CLUBS TIED AS BEN MALIKS WIN

The Malikis crack nine topped the Sannies lead in the City league last night in First street park by annexing a victory by a score of 7 to 1.

Campagna was on the mound for the Malikis and proved to be a real gray-day pitcher. The way he broke the ball had everybody talking. The Sannies were unable to find him, getting only five hits. Even then when they landed men on the bases, they failed to make their hits count. Ambrose made the only run for the Sannies.

Campagna struck out four, walked two and hit two. Bills pitched for the Sannies and managed to hold the Malikis to five hits after the sensational first inning when they knocked him for four hits. He struck out five and walked two.

Carson got the first hit of the game in the first inning. He was followed by Wheeler who coasted a home run over the right field fence. The same combination worked again later with Wheeler chalking up his second round trip, the only home runs of the game.

Every man on the Malik line-up stepped up to bat in the first inning, but after that Bills found himself and held them close.

The second week of the league finds each team with one win and one loss to its credit. Plenty of excitement is forecast for next week's games. All the teams are out to win. The Santa Fe and the Sannies tangle on Wednesday night and the Douglass cross bats with the Malikis on Thursday night.

There was plenty of snappy fielding on both sides last night showing that the fielders were wide awake. Only three errors were made throughout the game.

New Type Of Seismograph Invented By Californian

(By Universal Service)
PASADENA, May 10.—A new device for the measurement of earthquakes has been perfected here. This latest type of seismograph, it is predicted, will record with greater accuracy the location and intensity of tremors than has been possible in the past.

The inventor is Fred C. Henson, a graduate of the California Institute of Technology, of which the world-famous Dr. Robert A. Millikan, discoverer of the "Cosmic Ray," is the head. Henson works in a little laboratory which is slowly gaining recognition among scientists. He has no assistants, but makes or assembles each part of his delicate instruments alone.

The new Henson seismograph uses a beam of light to record earth shocks—a different principle than that used in the old types. These latter instruments used a heavy mass, suspended so it swung from north to south or east to west. Ground movements animal ed a stylus which recorder the variations from the period of rest. The distance of the quake from the observatory was calculated by a mathematical formula.

Henson's recorder consists of a heavy mass attached to a tungsten suspension, a wire 1-10,000 of an inch in diameter, the mass swings about its suspension on a vertical axis. Attached to it is a small mirror, which reflects a light beam sideways with the earth's movements. This beam is exposed on photographic paper attached to a drum rotating at uniform speed. It thus records the tremors and shows with unusual accuracy their general direction and intensity.

Two of these instruments have been sent to observatories in Copenhagen. Others have gone to Ottawa, Canada, the Lick observatory, Stanford and the University of California, the Golden Gate observatory at San Francisco, the west. Ground movements animal U. S. Geodetic survey stations in

Club Golf Title To Be Decided At Martinez

The club championship of the Contra Costa Golf club will be decided next Sunday when Jack H. Gribbin and Geo. W. Alfjan will play off the finals of the championship flight. The match is scheduled to start at 10 a. m., and a large gallery is expected to follow the match as both players are expected to play the same par golf that has placed them in the finals.

Jack Gribbin's rise to stardom in golf has been very rapid since taking up the game three years ago. Improvement has been noticeable from year to year. His strong game consists of long wood shots and canny putting both of which will probably force George Alfjan to play his best with his favorite irons.

Both players are medaling the sporty course at approximately the same score and are very evenly matched. This is expected to be a very interesting match from the standpoint of the gallery.

In the second flight, L. Schwartz meets L. Caldwell in the finals for the silver trophy. Any advantage that L. Caldwell may have with his long driving will probably be compensated by the accurate approaching and the deadly putting of L. Schwartz.

The finals of the third flight will bring together two Pittsburg members, namely Wade Moore and Dr. Ward. If Wade Moore duplicates his high class playing of last Sunday he should win this match. However this is not assured as his fellow townsman Dr. Ward, is at all times a dangerous competitor particularly under pressure.

Tolstoy's Servant

The servant went to market to buy pears, of which his master was inordinately fond.

"Good fruit," said the master, "or a beating for you!"

There were delicious pears in the market, and the servant selected a dozen of the finest in appearance. But here entered a doubt: Were they equally good in flavor? Would they satisfy the palate as well as the eye? The more he considered the matter the more anxious he became. That beating if the fruit were not satisfactory!

Desperately he bit into one. It was good. But the others?

Recklessly he bit into a second. It also was good. But how could he be sure the merchant was not cheating on those that remained?

In a frenzy he snatched a bite from all in turn; and then in triumph brought the fruit to his master...

NOTICE TO VOTERS

SMITH QUIZED ON CAMPAIGN EXPENDITURE

JUNIOR HIGH PLAY WILL BE HELD TONIGHT

NEW YORK, May 10.—Affable, chatty, and apparently intensely interested, Governor Alfred E. Smith today spent a pleasant half hour telling the Senate campaign fund committee just how much he did not know about the campaign to make him the Democratic presidential nominee.

Seated cross-legged and at ease in a big armchair in a parlor of the Hotel Commodore, the Governor chewed contentedly on a long, black cigar and admitted frankly his lack of knowledge of what has been done in his behalf. Moreover, he bluntly told the committee he didn't want to know.

The committee was composed of Senators Steiwer (Oregon) and McMaster (South Dakota), Republicans, and Barkley (Kentucky), and Bratton (New Mexico) Democrats.

To almost every other question regarding the cost and conduct of his campaign the Governor would reply:

"You fellows can tell me about that"—indicating George R. Van Ness, his unofficial campaign manager, former secretary, and a member of the State Public Service Commission, who sat in the rear of the room with a stack of documents in his lap.
